Dear Chairman Hatch, Ranking Member Wyden, Chairman Brady, Ranking Member Levin, Chairman Upton, and Ranking Member Pallone:

As former Administrators of the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services/Health Care Financing Administration, Republicans and Democrats, we frequently disagree among ourselves about any number of issues. But we all agree on the importance of treating Medicare beneficiaries fairly, efficiently, and as helpfully as possible. That’s why we have come together in support of the bipartisan Beneficiary Enrollment Notification and Eligibility Simplification (BENES) Act (S. 3236 and H.R. 5772).

Many of the problems addressed by the BENES Act did not exist when most of us were in the government, but the decoupling of eligibility ages for Medicare and full Social Security benefits, revisions to Medicare Secondary Payor law, and the growing number of Americans working past the age of 65 have, together, substantially complicated the decision making process for eligible individuals and couples in deciding when and how to enroll in Medicare.

Signing up for Part B is not a straightforward task, particularly for the increasing share of Americans who are working longer and delaying retirement. For these individuals, knowing when and whether to enroll in Part B requires understanding complex and varied rules. Enrollment missteps are a common occurrence and often lead to a lifetime of higher Part B premiums. In 2014, 750,000 people with Medicare were paying a Part B Late Enrollment Penalty (LEP) and the average LEP amounted to nearly a 30 percent increase in a beneficiary’s monthly premium.1 Gaps in coverage, higher health care costs, and limited access to needed care are also consequences experienced by those who make honest enrollment mistakes.

To prevent costly enrollment errors among people new to Medicare, the BENES Act provides enhanced notice and education for those approaching Medicare eligibility, aligns and simplifies Part B enrollment periods, and updates existing mechanisms for those seeking reprieve from Part B premium penalties and coverage delays. We encourage you to support the BENES Act.

Thank you.
